POSTOFFICE MAY BE DISCONTINUED

Mooney Patrons Will Likely Make Protest Against Removal of Office at That Place.

REPRESENTATIVE IS NOTIFIED

Will Close in Two Weeks Providing No Action is Taken Against It's Discontinuation

A communication was received at this office today from United States Representative John S. Benham, stating that he has received notice from the first assistant postmaster general that the postoffice at Mooney, Ind., would be discontinued in two weeks unless some action was taken by the patrons at that place to prevent it.

Representative Benham is anxious to hear from the patrons of the Mooney postoffice in regard to the matter and providing a majority are opposed to its discontinuation he will make a fight against the plan announced by the assistant postmaster general. The representative from the Fourth district is not acquainted with conditions at Mooney and is anxious to hear from residents there in regard to the postoffice situation.

Representative Benham is ready to make a protest providing it is the desire of the patrons at Mooney. The cause for the order from the post-office department is believed due to the falling off of business at the Mooney office. However, it is stated that many people in the western part of the county receive their mail through the Mooney office and unless better plans have been arranged for its distribution, the mail service in that community will be badly crippled when the office is finally closed.

Mooney residents have been notified of the proposed plan to discontinue the office and the matter has been taken up by several of the patrons to decide what action to take in the matter. Providing a protest is to be made, Representative Benham will be notified at once.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP TEACHERS ARE SELECTED

Buildings in Township Have Been Repaired and Put in Readiness For Opening of Term.

Dr. W. M. Casey, trustee of Jackson township announced today that all teachers for the grade schools in Jackson township have been selected. However, some of the teachers have not signed a contract and until they have done so, the names will be withheld for a few days.

All of the school buildings in the township have been cleaned and put in good condition for the coming term which will open Monday, September 22.

GASOLINE FIRE

Fire Department Called to Comer Bicycle Shop at Noon.

The fire department was called to the A. Comer bicycle shop on East Second street at noon today where a bucket of gasoline had caught on fire. Mr. Comer had the blaze extinguished before the department arrived and no damage was done. Mr. Comer stated that he did not turn in the fire alarm and it is the supposition that some person passing while the gasoline was blazing became alarmed and called the fire department.

DIES AT COLUMBUS

Miss Mary Nienaber Passes Away This Morning.

The funeral service will be held from the family residence in Columbus Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MANY SOLDIERS HAVE REPORTED

History of Jackson County's Part in World War is Practically Completed.

GATHERED FOR STATE HISTORY

All Soldiers That Have Not Filled Out Information Blanks Must Do So at Once.

The data pertaining to Jackson county's part in the World War has practically all been collected according to Alpha Cox, who is at the head of the committee appointed by the Jackson County Historical Society and the work of getting it ready to submit to the state historical commission will be started next week.

Many of the soldiers in the county have responded by filling out the information blank that can be obtained at the Cox Pharmacy and several other places in the county but it is the opinion of the local committee that a large number have not done so up-to-date and it is their desire that they do so within the next week. This information which is being collected will go into a large state history of Indiana's part in the World War.

It is believed to be due to neglect that many of the soldiers have not filled the information blank and turned it into the county historical committee and the public is urged to encourage the soldiers to submit their names before the history is closed and placed in the hands of the publisher for printing.

The committee appointed to get together Jackson county's history has been working untiringly in getting the desired data and should have the co-operation of the public in general in their work. Mr. Cox stated this morning that several persons who were in Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, and the service of other organizations who are entitled to mention in the history have not supplied the desired information and it is hoped that they will do so during the next week.

Every Jackson county man who was in the army, marine or navy service is expected to give desired information concerning the kind of service and other interesting facts about his enlistment. This information must be in within the next week and it is to be hoped that as many Jackson county men as possible who were in the service for their country will be included in the history before it goes to the printer.

In cases where the soldiers are away from home the parents are requested to see that they are supplied with the blanks and that the committee is given the desired information. The local committee plans to start the work of compiling the county data for the state history next week.

WARREN T. McCRAY SEEKS NOMINATION

Formal Announcement is Made From His Home at Kentland.

WILL BEGIN CANVASS AT ONCE

Good Clean Business Administration Pledged as His Platform.

Warren T. McCray, of Kentland, has formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor. In making the announcement he addressed the following statement to the Republican voters of Indiana:

"I have decided to again seek the Republican nomination for the office of Governor of the state of Indiana.

"I am seeking the nomination on my own initiative and, if nominated and elected, will give the people of Indiana a good, clean business administration.

"To this end I ask and earnestly desire your support in the coming primary election."

Mr. McCray's announcement has been expected for some time. When Will H. Hays, national chairman, withdrew at the meeting of the Indiana Republican editors at Magnesia Springs recently it was announced by Mr. McCray's friends that he would make the race. Since then they have been active in his behalf.

Mr. McCray is well known in Indiana. He is owner of the Orchard Lake Stock Farm near Kentland. He made the race in the primary in 1916 against Governor Goodrich and, while he was then new in politics, he built an organization in every community.

RESERVATIONISTS SEEK COMPROMISE

All Groups Except "Battalion of Death" Getting Together on Differences.

EXEREMISTS TO TRAIL WILSON

Borah, Johnson and McCormick are Irreconcilable on Peace Treaty.

By L. C. Martin United Press Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Sept. 6—With senatorial opponents of the treaty and league of Nations planning a tour over the ground now being covered by the president, leaders of the various senate factions today were counting "noses" in an effort to determine their voting strength.

A leading democratic senator today declared that twenty democrats will vote for reservation to the treaty while twenty-seven will vote for unqualified ratification.

This prediction, it was made plain, is based on the assumption that there will be no more changes of position.

Meanwhile the "mild reservationists" and the Lodge group were trying to compromise their differences over the wording of the reservation on article X of the League covenant which is now the real issue among those favoring reservations.

Senator Lodge's proposal, adopted by the foreign relations committee, is for a reservation which assumes that the United States will stay out of foreign wars over territorial invasions and he like, except upon the most extreme provocations.

Senator McCumber's plan of presenting the views of "mild reservationists" assumes that the United States will be willing to get into such wars if a plain case of unlawful aggression can be made out.

Both proposals leave the United States free to decide through congress when it will go in and to what extent.

On the other reservations—withdrawal, domestic questions and the Monroe Doctrine—there was today no essential disagreement between Lodge and "mild" group. Senators McNary, McCumber, Colt and others said they find these three acceptable in the main.

The "battalion of death," as the treaty irreconcilables are known, plans to use the time which the two reservation groups will consume in composing their differences, in trailing the president.

Several times such a tour has been tentatively decided on, only to be abandoned. Now it is definitely announced that senators Borah, Johnson and McCormick will launch it next Wednesday at Chicago, continuing through the middle west and west.

Johnson is to be the headliner with the others making short individual trips within reasonable reach of Washington.

Johnson's engagements already decided upon include Indianapolis on September 11, St. Louis and Kansas City.

PRESIDENT INVADES OPPONENT'S TOWN

Declares American Spirit Has Made Conquest of the World Through the Treaty.

SEEKS NATION'S VIEWPOINT

Says Treaty Rejection Would Make Us a Militaristic Power in an Armed World.

(By Hugh Baile, United Press Staff Correspondent)

Kansas City Mo., September 6—Constituents of Senator Reed, one of the principal opponents of the League of Nations, today heard President Wilson's arguments for ratification.

Kansas City is Reed's home town. Treaty opponents who view the documents with "jaundiced eyes," who are against it because they have some "private political purpose," will "at last be gibbeted and they will regret that the gibbet is so high," President Wilson told a big crowd here today.

He reiterated that it was a case of "put up or shut up" and the opposition would have to produce something better than the league of nations.

Mere negation without offering anything constructive to replace the treaty is bolshevism he asserted.

He said he respected the man who honestly although ignorantly opposed it but denounced those against it through no reason.

There was great applause when the President proclaimed that through the treaty, "the American spirit has made conquest of the world."

"The war has won by the American spirit," he said.

There was a wild shout from the crowd.

If the treaty is rejected those responsible will have "a life long reckoning with the fighting forces of the United States."

The cause he is fighting for is greater than the senate or the government, the President said and he intends "in office or out to fight for it as long as I live."

Wilson apparently is making an effort to humanize and visualize the treaty and to convince the people that the nation is facing one of the most momentous alternatives of its history, that if the verdict is against the treaty as it stands the effect will be felt in the homes and pocketbooks of American citizens. Rejection, he says, will make America a militaristic power facing disappointed unfriendly nations in an armed world with consequent higher living costs and eventual war. This was emphasized in St. Louis speeches.

The president says he wants to get acquainted with the people to get the nation's viewpoint and he seems to seek opportunities to get close to folks.

Before the train left St. Louis he sat for some time on the rear platform railing while hundreds massed against the iron pickets of the train shed fence, a few feet distant, stared, occasionally bursting into brief spasms of applause. Many asked for a "speech" but Wilson smilingly answered "oh, no."

WILL REMOVE WIRES AND CABLES AT ONCE

Western Union Telegraph Company Will Co-operate With "Great White Way" Committee.

In response to a request made to the Western Union Telegraph Co. to move their poles and cables off of Second and Chestnut streets to make way for the new lighting system that is to be installed soon, Claude Carter received a letter from one of the company officials today stating that they would have the work done within the next ten days.

A similar request has been made to the Postal Telegraph Company but as yet no reply has been received. Mr. Carter expects to hear from that company by the first of next week.

LOOKING TO AMERICANS.

(St. Louis Globe Democrat)
The disinterested course of the United States during the war period has made a deep impression, especially on small nations, and they are turning to this country for new ideas for the period of reconstruction. There was no selfish thought or purpose among the millions of Americans who took up arms and speedily brought the war to an end. Americans fought for free government and for civilization. These are vital to the preservation of this country, or of any country so constituted. But we have sought no other material gain from the great conflict. This fact places the people of the United States in a high position before the world, and, as a consequence, our model of government is studied by all races more seriously than ever before. But the large nations are not indifferent on the subject. China, for example, a new republic, looks to us for sympathy and reasonable support. Our position has become one of great influence. How can we use it to the best advantage of all concerned?

It is fortunate that the leadership of Americans in public education has fitted so many of them to be helpful in the new era at hand. The nations and races that have suffered most in the war have no desire to return to old conditions. They could not do it if they would. The moving finger has written. Future and past cannot be the same for countless millions who were drawn into the struggle by resistless forces. Dynasties and aristocracies have crumbled. We became the first of nations without them. We have furnished the pattern, and this is only the beginning of broadened duties and responsibilities.

But if we are true to ourselves it will follow, as the night the day, we cannot then be false to any.

This hearing will be for the purpose of determining whether these or any other rates shall be continued. The Commission is anxious that every person who is in any way interested in the matter may appear and be heard at the hearing.

Dedicate Shaft for La Fayette.

(By United Press)
Pointe De Grave, France, Sept. 6. (By Mail.)—France today honored La Fayette's birthday by laying a cornerstone here on the site from which he set sail for America, of the monument which is to be erected in commemoration of American aid and intervention.

President Poincare laid the first stone for the monument. Premier Clemenceau, Marshal Foch, Ambassador Hugh Wallace and Secretary Frank Polk assisted at the ceremony.

Units of American and French soldiers marched in review and acted as guards of honor, while just off the coast in the estuary of the Gironde river American and French battleships cruised by the historic point.

It was on March 24, 1777 that La Fayette, with his small force sailed for America. All American troops which landed at Bordeaux during the past two years passed close by this spot which until today was unmarked.

A message from President Wilson expressing his profound interest and appreciation in the name of the entire American people and his personal regrets at not being able to be present, was read.

Thrifty Potatoes.

(By United Press)
Lafayette, Sept. 6—Forty potatoes on a vine over four feet tall is the record production obtained by the Horticultural Division of the Department of Agricultural Extension of Purdue on one of the plants grown on the plots of the division. When the vine was removed from the soil, it was green and growing and in all probability would have made a more surprising record had it been allowed to complete its growth.

SALE OF SOFT DRINKS DECREASED THIS YEAR

Effect of Prohibition Law The Reverse of What Was Expected.

(By United Press)

New York, September 5—Despite prohibition the sale of soft drinks has decreased instead of increased, it was revealed here today.

One reason advanced by bottlers was the closing of a number of saloons, which they said, handled a large part of their output. Another reason was the high cost of living in general and the increased price of the drinks in particular. Some materials in soft drinks have increased as high as 300 per cent., while the price of the beverages has increased only 20 per cent., bottlers said.

Food Sanitation Improving.

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, September 6—Sanitary conditions in Indiana's food establishments are being improved, according to a succession of reports of inspectors. Several months ago the trips of inspection over the state revealed numerous unsanitary places and by drastic measures the number was reduced.

Only one drug store was listed as "bad" in July out of 108 inspected. Ten were rated as excellent, seventy-four as good, twenty-one as fair and two poor. In the cases of the last classification, the owners were given a limited period in which to clean up with the alternative of being closed and facing prosecution.

Of 358 groceries inspected there was not a condemnation. Two hundred and fifty of these stores were rated good, ninety-eight fair and eight poor. Two were classified as excellent.

Four ice cream factories were condemned and closed pending alterations and improvements.

PASTORS WHO USE TOBACCO ARE BARRED

Christian Church Board at Ogilville Will Not Tolerate Minister Who Smokes or Chews.

Wanted, a pastor for the Ogilville Christian church. No tobacco using preachers need apply. The Ogilville Christian church is temporarily without a pastor by reason of the recent resignation of Rev. Dugan, who has gone to another field of work.

It is reported that the official board of the Ogilville Christian church is "dead set" against a pastor who uses tobacco in any form and that it will not consider any user of the weed to fill the vacancy in the pastorate now existing at the church.

The stand taken by the Ogilville church board has opened a discussion on tobacco using ministers and in this connection a leading minister of this city said that the tobacco habit is common among ministers of the gospel and that his observation had been that the habit has been growing among them in the past ten years—Columbus Republican.

County Superintendent Receives Ruling as To Who Can Be Considered Teachers.

Harry B. Henderson, county superintendent of schools, has received the following ruling relative to teachers in the Junior High School of the county.

As a basis for determining whether or not a school conforms to the requirements of a junior high school, and before the provisions of the junior high school law may be held to apply, any school which establishes one of the foregoing types of junior high school or intermediate school shall have its course of study and teaching staff approved in advance by the state board of education. Therefore there will be no junior high in Indiana, so far as classification by the state board of education is concerned, until approval can be made of the course of study and the teaching staff of the school. Blanks will be furnished by the department for the reports on those and other items.

Many questions arise concerning junior high school licenses. The state board has decided that teachers with the required training who hold common school licenses may be hired to teach in grades seven and eight on these licenses, but that all such teachers must necessarily hold junior high school licenses before the school can be approved and recognized as a junior high school by the state department of education.

Any teacher who holds a common school license and makes additional license in high school English and high school science of education will be eligible for approval in this respect by the state board of education. For this reason it is advisable that all teachers who teach in junior high schools which will ask for proper recognition, take examination in these additional subjects and hold licenses in same; or a better procedure would be for the teachers to write for new junior high school licenses in the subjects they teach, together with junior high school English and high school science.

If a junior high school license is made as late as January there will be ample time to have schools approved as Junior high schools by the state board of education.

EXPECT EPIDEMIC OF INFLUENZA THIS YEAR

Air Prescribed as Best Preventative.

By United Press

New York, Sept. 6—A minor epidemic of influenza is practically inevitable throughout America this fall, according to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health for New York City.

Influenza epidemics have always swept countries in pairs, according to Commissioner Copeland. The last one in America prior to last winter was in 1891, which was the minor appendage to the major epidemic of 1890.

Dr. Copeland looks for the epidemic this year to be much lighter than that of 1918, though minor epidemics

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kentucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city. "But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mention ing."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcline and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and sniff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcline say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

The room was still Isabel's. Nothing had been changed; even the photographs of George, of the Major and of "brother George" still stood on her dressing table, and in a drawer of her desk was an old picture of Eugene and Lucy, taken together, which George had found but had slowly closed away again from sight, not touching it. Tomorrow everything would be gone; and he had heard there was not long to wait before the house itself would be demolished. The very space which tonight was still Isabel's room would be cut into new shapes by new walls and floors and ceilings; yet the room would always live, for it could not die out of George's memory. It would live as long as he did, and it would always be murmurous with a tragic, wistful whispering.

And if space itself can be haunted, as memory is haunted, then some time, when the space that was Isabel's room came to be made into the small bedrooms and "kitchenettes" already designed as its destiny, that space might well be haunted and the new occupants come to feel that some seemingly causeless depression hung about it—a wraith of the passion that filled it throughout the last night that George Minafer spent there.

Whatever remnants of the old high-handed arrogance were still within him, he did penance for his deepest sin that night—and it may be that to this day some impressionable, over-worked woman in a "kitchenette," after turning out the light, will seem to see a young man kneeling in the darkness, shaking convulsively, and with arms outstretched through the wall, clutching at the covers of a shadowy bed. It may seem to her that she hears the faint cry, over and over: "Mother, forgive me! God, forgive me!"

At least it may be claimed for George that his last night in the house where he had been born was not occupied with his own disheartening future, but with sorrow for what sacrifices his pride and youth had demanded of others. And early in the morning he came downstairs and tried to help Fanny make coffee on the kitchen range.

"There was something I wanted to say to you last night, Aunt Fanny," he said.

"Why—why—" she stammered; but she knew what he was going to say, and that was why she had been more and more nervous. "Haden't—perhaps—perhaps we'd better get the—the things moved to the little new home first, George. Let's—"

He interrupted quietly, though at her phrase, "the little new home," his pungent impulse was to utter one loud shout and run. "It was about this new place that I wanted to speak. I've been thinking it over and I've decided. I want you to take all the things from mother's room and use them and keep them for me, and I'm sure the little apartment will be just what you like; and with the extra bedroom probably you could find some woman friend to come and live there and share the expense with you. But I've decided on another arrangement, for myself, and so I'm not going with you. I don't suppose you'll mind much, and I don't see why you should mind—particularly, that is. I can't imagine you, or anyone else, being much attached to me, so—"

He stopped in amazement: no chair had been left in the kitchen, but Fanny gave a despairing glance around her in search of one, then sank abruptly and sat flat upon the floor.

"What on earth—" George sprang to her. "Get up, Aunt Fanny!"

"I can't. I'm too weak. Let me alone, George!" And as he released the wrist he had seized to help her she uttered the dismal prophecy which for days she had been matching against her hopes: "You're going to leave me—in the lurch!"

"Why no, Aunt Fanny!" he protested. "At first I'd have been something of a burden on you. I'm to get eight dollars a week; about thirty-two a month. The rent's thirty-six dollars a month, and the table d'hôte dinner runs up to over twenty-two dollars apiece, so with my half of the rent—eighteen dollars—I'd have less than nothing left out of my salary to pay my share of the groceries for all the breakfasts and luncheons. You see you'd not only be doing all the housework and cooking, but you'd be paying more of the expenses than I would."

She stared at him with such a forlorn blankness as he had never seen. "I'd be paying—" she said feebly. "I'd be paying—"

"Certainly you would. You'd be using more of your money than—"

"My money!" Fanny's chin drooped upon her thin chest and she laughed miserably. "I've got twenty-eight dollars. That's all."

"You mean until the interest is due again?"

"I mean that's all," Fanny said. "I mean that's all there is. There won't be any more interest because there isn't any principal."

"Why you told—"

She shook her head. "No. I haven't told you anything."

"Then it was Uncle George. He told me you had enough to fall back on. That's just what he said: 'to fall back on.' He said you'd lost more than you should in the headlight company, but he'd insisted that you should hold out enough to live on, and you'd very wisely followed his advice."

"I know," she said weakly. "I told him so. He didn't know, or else he'd forgotten how much Wilbur's insurance amounted to, and I—oh, it seemed such a sure way to make a real fortune out of a little—and I thought I could do something for you, George, if you ever came to need it—and it all looked so bright I just thought I'd put it all in. I did—every cent except my last interest payment—and it's gone."

"Good Lord!" George began to pace up and down the worn planks of the bare floor. "Why on earth did you wait till now to tell such a thing as this?"

"I couldn't till I had to," she said piteously. "It wouldn't do any good—not any good on earth." She got out her lace handkerchief and began to cry. "Nothing does any good, I guess, in this old world! Oh, how tired of this old world I am! I didn't know what to do. I just tried to go ahead and be as practical as I could, and arrange some way for us to live. Oh, I knew you didn't want me, George! I can see that much! You don't suppose I want to thrust myself on you, do you? It isn't very pleasant to be thrusting yourself on a person you know doesn't want you—but I knew you oughtn't to be left all alone in the world; it isn't good. I knew your mother'd want me to watch over you and try to have something like a home for you—I knew she'd want me to do what I tried to do!" Fanny's tears were bitter now, and her voice, hoarse and wet, was tragically sincere. "Oh—and now—you don't want—you want to leave me in the lurch!"

"Oh, my Lord!" He went to her and lifted her. "For God's sake get up! Come, let's take the coffee into the other room and see what's to be done."

He got her to her feet; she leaned upon him, already somewhat comforted, and, with his arm about her, he conducted her to the dining room and seated her in one of the two kitchen chairs which had been placed at the rough table. "There!" he said, "get over it!" Fanny's spirits revived appreciably: she looked up with a plaintive eagerness. "I had bought all my fall clothes, George," she said; "and I paid every bill I owed. I don't owe a cent for clothes, George."

"That's good," he said wanly, and he had a moment of physical dizziness that decided him to sit down quickly. For an instant it seemed to him that he was not Fanny's nephew, but married to her. He passed his pale hand over his paler forehead. "Well, let's see where we stand," he said feebly. "Let's see if we can afford this place you've selected."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT AT COLUMBUS O. NEXT WEEK

Other Military Organizations Will Participate in Parade This Year.

By United Press

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 6—Just thirty-one years ago today all Columbus was keyed up to the highest pitch of expectancy and preparation. Decorators were swathing the city with flags and bunting. Gas-lighted arches were being erected in the downtown sections. Mammoth cities of the tents were springing up and band stands and reviewing stands were being built along High street.

Columbus was preparing to welcome 100,000 veterans of the civil war to the twenty-second national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Then the blue-coated hordes swept into Columbus from every section of the country.

On Tuesday, September 11, 1888, was held the greatest parade in the history of the city. Leading the columns of sturdy civil warriors were General William Tecumseh Sherman and ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes.

The soldiers marched with firm step and clear eye. The day was theirs. A half hundred bands and drum corps resounded martial music while the tread of thousands of feet beat in cadence on the cobblestones of High street. The procession was miles in length and took hours and hours to pass the reviewing stand in East Broad street.

Commander-in-Chief Rea, General Sherman and ex-President Hayes and official staff left the column at the reviewing stand while the long, steadily marching columns continued on.

The thirty-third national G. A. R. encampment next week will probably be the last ever held by the veterans of years gone by.

Instead of mammoth camps, necessary years ago to accommodate the thousands of soldiers, Columbus today was throwing open its homes to the civil war veterans who began pouring into the city on every train.

The camps are not needed. There were 100,000 veterans in the city then. Now there will be not more than a tenth of that number. Instead of the numerous band stands along High street, first aid stations have been created to care for the aged veterans who may succumb to the strenuous activities of the parade to be held next Wednesday.

In 1888, the march was nearly three miles in length. Next week's line of march will cover only a very short distance, probably less than a mile. There will be thousands who will not march with their comrades. Special relieving stands have been erected for them.

Time has marched on in thirty-one years, and many thousands of soldiers have dropped from the ranks.

For the first time in the history of G. A. R. encampments, other military organizations will take part. Thousands of Spanish War and World War veterans will march with the civil war heroes. The younger blood of America will take over the more strenuous duties of the civil warriors with a zeal born of victory.

Former Governor James A. Campbell, director general of the encampment, has been assured that nearly every post of the American Legion in Ohio will take part in the parade.

"The Lost Christ"

"The Lost Christ" will be the subject of the sermon at The Central Christian Church Sunday evening Sept. 7th, a sermon impressive and appealing. Have you lost Christ during the vacation season? Are you conscious of your poverty? Sometimes we lose our chief possessions and know it not until some need arises. The loss of friends casts a pall over our lives, for life would be dreary indeed without friends to help in time of need. Christ can do for us what none other can do; come hear how you may find Him when you have lost Him.

Go To College Day

Go To College Day will be observed at the morning hour in honor of our young people who will enter college this fall. A new day of Leadership is at hand, a day demanding trained men and women. The church has always recognized the need of trained leaders. The great educational institutions of this country are Church Schools. We are especially proud to do honor to our young folks who are anxious to prepare for life leadership.

An Hour in Bible Study

The man who spends an hour in Bible study each week is better fitted to do his work. The Bible tells of the experiences of those who have gone before and these stories have a real message for us today. Five hundred in Sunday School before the close of the year is not too many to ask for in this community.
